Another eminently successful "Spring Session for Seniors" has just ended and the students, every bit as eager and receptive as their younger counterparts, are leaving the campus with a strong sense of accomplishment. The Session, which began on 5 May, presented a varied educational program and a number of social activities.

The co-sponsors of this, the sixth consecutive Session, were the Faculty of Extension, the Special Sessions Office, and the Society for the Retired and Semi-Retired. Funding was supplied by Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower.

Academic Review Committee Formed

Perhaps one of the most important ventures to be embarked upon at The University of Alberta within recent years, notwithstanding the immense significance of the recent investigation into the University's priorities and of the current efforts to improve teaching and learning, is the imminent review of each academic program at the University. As a result of much discussion across campus, at Board level and by the General Faculties Council, the establishment of a President's Advisory Committee on Academic Reviews has been endorsed by the University community and its membership has now been decided upon.

The Chairman of the Committee is W.E. Harris, former Chairman of the Department of Chemistry. The other members are Vice-President (Academic) Baldwin, as the President's representative; G. Ford, former Dean of the Faculty of Engineering; and J. Forster, Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research. Each of these people is well known at the University, for his commitment to academic excellence as well as for his administrative skills.

President Horowitz, addressing the Friends of The University of Alberta at a meeting earlier this month, had this to say about the future work of the Committee: "With regard to the review of all of our programs, and all of our units—our academic units and our service units—we are absolutely committed to that important activity, and we are absolutely determined not to repeat the mistakes which have occurred in other institutions that have attempted to review their programs.

"We feel that it is important for us to find out what we are doing, what we are doing well, what we might do better, and what we might want to be for other institutions; because, unlike 1942, we are not the only post-secondary institution in this province—there are other universities and a large number of colleges. Perhaps, some of the things we have been doing might be turned over to other institutions.

"We embark on this activity with excitement and certainly not in the spirit of our conducting a kind of 'policing' action. We are not setting out to find those departments or those Faculties which should be deleted from the University. Each individual has his 'pet' unit and a unit he would be ready to push aside but we, who are obliged to look at the University from a broad perspective, must recognize that for better or for worse—I think for better—we are a large and complex institution. In one sense, we are a liberal arts college; in another, we are a quality research institute. We prepare large numbers of people for a variety of professions. We are into all of these things, and, consequently, our aim is not to identify a unit or two to be made a kind of 'institutional scapegoat' but, rather, for us to help each other to identify strengths and to identify weaknesses. In our attempt to do that, we shall be involving not only scholars from within the institution but experts from outside as well." □

GOAL: The Group in Oriental and African Languages

A new Group in Oriental and African Languages is currently being established at this University as the result of a generous grant from the Alma Mater Fund (to which alumni of this institution make gifts in support of worthwhile community-related and other projects not funded through normal sources). The Group, whose acronym is GOAL, will begin its work in September 1980.

The major objective of GOAL is to develop teaching facilities in Oriental and African Languages (excepting the Arabic, Chinese, and Japanese languages, since these are already, or soon will be, taught within the formal departmental structure of the University). Furthermore GOAL expects to increase its sphere of interest gradually to encompass, for example, area studies related to the nations whose languages are taught, to their literatures, and to their development in a social and economic sense. Seminars will be arranged, as will forums for discussion and the exchange of ideas. In addition, the Group hopes to make use of present institutional structures within the University and may seek external funds to assist in the development of new institutional structures.

For more information about the innovative Group in Oriental and African Languages, please telephone P. Krishnan in the Department of Sociology, 432-5855. □

Executive Assistant to Vice-President (Academic) Appointed

The first day of her appointment falls on a holiday but busy days are sure to follow for Florence Watters. Ms. Watters, currently Arts Faculty Secretary, has been appointed Executive Assistant to Vice-President (Academic) Baldwin, effective 1 July 1980. One of her many areas of responsibility will be the academic program review system.

Ms. Watters joined the staff of The University of Alberta in 1967 following a period of employment as Executive Secretary to the Prairie Regional Program Director of the CBC. Based in Winnipeg, her position involved liaison with CBC radio and TV outlets in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta.

After working for two years as departmental secretary/administrative assistant in the Department of English, Ms. Watters was appointed Executive to the Alberta Government's Minister of Industry and Tourism.

She returned to the University in 1972 and has been with the Dean's Office, Faculty of Arts, since then, latterly as Administrative and Professional Officer (Faculty Secretary, serving as secretary and resource person to Arts Council and seven major standing committees). □
